Log in

This hand-drawn diagram depicts a mobile application's login interface. It features a large rounded rectangle containing several input fields and a central button. On the right side, the word "Log in" is written vertically. To its left are two vertical input fields: one labeled "Email" and another labeled "Password". Below these fields is a horizontal oval button labeled "Login". A double-headed arrow on the far left indicates the flow from the "Email" field to the "Login" button.
